Connecting Communities to Health Information Resources

from the National Library of Medicine®

www.nlm.nih.gov

Health disparities refer to differences in the health status of different groups of people.

Some groups of people have higher rates of certain diseases, and more deaths and suffering from them, compared to others.

These groups may be based on

- Race
- Ethnicity
- Immigrant status
- Disability
- Sex or gender
- Sexual orientation
- Geography
- Income

– National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities, National Institutes of Health

The National Library of Medicine (NLM) provides health information resources that address the concerns of diverse communities in its effort to eliminate health information disparities and to achieve health equity for everyone.
